

Be Daring in Faith

Faith has been called “the bird that feels the light and sings when the dawn is still dark.” This is the overcoming faith that Jesus taught.

Have you ever felt the need for this kind of faith—faith to help you meet the challenges of life?

Jesus did not claim that His faith was unique or exclusive, but often said that anything is possible to those who have even a grain of faith. Through the parables, He taught us the power of faith to heal both mind and body, to improve any condition, to supply us with the necessities of life, to clarify our lives, and to assure us of God’s eternal love and care.

Everyone has been endowed by God with the gift of faith. In the development and exercise of this gift, we can learn to live as Jesus lived, trusting God for life, strength, wisdom, joy, and abundance. In our daily practice, we can discover the unlimited bounty of God, the unlimited bounty that always exceeds anything we can think of as our hearts’ desires.

Faith is a deep inner knowing that all we need or seek is already ours. As you take time to pray and meditate, you become centered in God’s presence and your faith grows. Faith draws you nearer to God and to the enduring good that is God’s will for you.

Be daring in faith. You have enough faith to call forth God’s gift of light and to let it guide you. The light of God within you directs your every step.

You have enough faith to call forth God’s gift of life and to let it restore you to perfect health. Feel the life of God reverberating throughout every cell and tissue of your body, energizing it and bringing forth wholeness.

You have enough faith to call forth God’s gift of substance, which prospers you abundantly. As you quiet your thoughts in prayer, let rich ideas fill your mind and picture the abundance of God, bringing you wonderful new blessings.

You have enough faith to affirm God’s light, life, and substance for others and to see them abundantly blessed. Those you hold in your heart will benefit from your faith-filled prayers as you see them blessed in every way.

Be daring in faith, dear friend, and your faith will take you much further than you can see. Be daring in faith, and let your faith sing, even when “the dawn is still dark.” Be daring in faith, and your faith will fill you with the peace of knowing that bountiful blessings are yours.
