

In God's light, I see clearly and understand perfectly. I know the way to go and what to do.

Within the Circle Is Light

What should I do today? Which way should I go? What direction do I want my life to take? What can I do about the actions of a family member or neighbor or co-worker?

Do you ever ask yourself these types of questions? Do you wonder which way to go or how best to help?

You are not alone in your searching. We all have decisions to make every day. Some are large, some small. Some are easier than others.

No matter how simple or complicated a problem appears to be, there is an answer.

No matter how dark the night may seem, the dawn will come. Light will shine. It shines now in your mind and heart. You can pray and know as the Psalmist knew:

“Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path.”

—Psalm 119:105

You have the light of God within you—a beacon that shines in you, through you to guide you in all ways. Let your heart be at peace as you begin your time of prayer. Release your need and the decision you must make. Release them to God ...

Release ... relax ... and allow these words to fill your heart:

I relax and release all concerns to You, God. Your light is a lamp, shining in me and on everything around me.

Your light is brilliant. Like the stars that early travelers used to guide them on their way, Your light guides me on my own way. Yet Your light in my mind and heart shines brighter than any star in the universe.

You are my light ...

I am a traveler on the journey of life. There are many paths on my journey. As I walk each one, I feel only peace because Your light is guiding my every step.

My path may take many turns; it may lead me up hills and down into valleys. There may be bends in the road that I cannot see around, but I know that Your light is shining to guide me through every turn, up every hill, and back down again.

Mountains may loom before me, yet I have the constant assurance that You are with me, God, that Your light is shining and will always shine, that I will always know the way.

You are my light ...

When my heart questions what to do, I place my concerns in Your care. Light floods my being. Light calms my mind. Light gives peace to my soul.

Light beams on everything. In Your light, I see clearly. I understand. I know which way to go. I know what to do.

God, Your light comforts me when darkness clouds my mind. I know that truly there is no darkness, no inability to see, when I am centered in Your ever-present light.

Like clouds that cover the sun's rays, the questions of my heart sometimes keep me from seeing Your light. But the sun does not stay behind the clouds forever, and I know that it will shine again.

I know that although I may not see the light, You are there. You are shining, radiating light within me. I open my mind and heart to Your light. I open my eyes to the answers that are mine to receive.

When I feel lost or alone, Your light leads me home again.

When I question what I am doing or where I am going, I yield to Your radiant light and listen for Your answer. Here in the light, I hear Your gentle whisper. I feel Your faint nudge, and I know what direction to take.

You are my light ...

Thank You, God, for Your light that shines through me, illumining my mind and heart, guiding my every step. With You leading the way, I know that there will always be light on my path.

There will always be light ... You are my light ... Thank You, God.
